Nick Cuti gets the book rolling with "An Old Game." There are some new (to me) artists in this book and Moreno Casares art makes this story look realistic. In the next story (Shhh!), another artist (Joe Vaultz) shows off another style of artwork that is interesting. If you do Sci-Fi, it has to be interesting. Jose Ortiz is very good at drawing misshapen, troll like oddities. We have a good color story called "Winner Take All." Luis Bermejo turns in the artwork for this one. A Creepy classic is the story "Hellhound" written by Bruce Jones and artwork by Russ Heath. At first pass, while reading this story, you think you know how it's going to end off but are you in for a pleasant surprise! This one had one of the best surprise endings I have seen in awhile. "They Are Going To Be Turning Out The Lights" confronts social decay and steps to remedy it. How does this story stand today in 2015? There are other good stories and artwork that I won't mention but there is one dud and that is issue 103. It was a reprint issue and while Dark Horse took most of the stories out, the three presented look familiar to me from past archives. There is a lot of interesting things to read and see in this archive.0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Creepy for the ages and boys from 10 to 110.By Kindle CustomerI grew up reading Creepy, it only get better with age. I enjoy the humor, the plot twists,and the artwork.0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Five StarsBy Veli-Pekka SilvanGood classics!

Creepy Archives, the quintessential horror anthology, continues to deliver a multitude of monstrous plights and terrifying twist endings! This deluxe hardcover collects issues #99 to #103 of the influential Warren Publishing series and includes all original letters columns, color sections, and text pieces--along with a new foreword by Jos Villarrubia! Within these pages you'll shriek in fright as you witness the destruction of our planet, terrors arising from the ocean's depths, and hideous creatures and criminals lurking after every page turn! Contributors include timeless titans Bruce Jones, Richard Corben, Russ Heath, John Severin, Len Wein, and many others!
