By Weavrmom Many thanks to SuBLime for putting out this extremely well-done translation! I've been eagerly anticipating this sequel, and it doesn't disappoint. From master storyteller Youka Nitta, a tale that mixes esp elements with hard-boiled police work, along with a mature love story. Not the typical high-school kids, the main characters are complex and worth getting to know. For fans of Nitta's other work, Otodama: Voice From the Dead, this gives older brother Nagatsuma's background, so we learn of the emotional sacrifices he has made for his career. This adds poignancy to his later clash with his brother over whether to work within or outside of the police department, in Otodama. Anyway, great artwork, and a focus on older working adults which I very much appreciate. Love the translation, with characters speaking in fluid, believable English as they deal with complex issues. I can hardly wait for Volume 3, as this one leaves us STILL in slow burn mode, waiting for our faithful lovers to be reunited. Sigh. I'll just keep waiting along with them.... ETA, there are NO scanlations, not even raws out of this story on the web. So every page was a pleasant surprise and totally new to me. Such a great story! 1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. Five Stars By Customer Wonderful!! 0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. A hands-on tale of love and secrets between a detective and his blind masseur! Detective Nagatsuma, a member of a special criminal investigative unit, starts receiving therapeutic bodywork from blind masseur Aoi, whose abilities go far beyond his magic hands. Because Nagatsuma knows he is in love with Aoi, he makes the hard decision to break up with to betray Aoi. Burdened with a painful wound no one can see, Nagatsuma is assigned to Section Zero, a division of the police force tasked with handling investigations of a paranormal nature. However, the young man sent to collaborate with them knows of Nagatsuma's relationship with Aoi. Will he keep this information to himself or use it to his advantage?
